Top: Paul Cooper couldn't stop this penalty from Liverpool's Terry McDermott, but the Ipswich 'keeper still finished third in our table.

Left: Tony Godden had a big hand in helping West Brom clinch a UEFA cup place, conceding one goal per game in the League last season.

The first column in the table on the right shows the number of games played.

The second column shows the number of goals conceded and the third column is the average number of minutes play between each goal.

For instance, Arsenal's Pat Jennings conceded, on average, one goal every 85 minutes.

Only League goals have been used in the compilation of this table and only goalkeepers who played at least ten games qualified for inclusion.

United's young star tops our table

MANCHESTER United's Gary Bailey had the safest pair of hands in the First Division last season.

United may have had a mediocre season by their own high standards, but England B international Gary maintained impressive form throughout.

He conceded only 35 goals in 40 League matches, an average of a goal conceded every 103 minutes, to leave experienced international goalkeepers in his wake.

Gary, hailed as the possible successor to current England men Ray Clemence and Joe Corrigan, finished ahead of one of his Old Trafford predecessors, Aston Villa's Jimmy Rimmer.

Jimmy was the rock-like foundation on which Villa built their Championship success. He was ever-present and conceded just 40 goals.

We thought the World

THERE has never been a prouder moment in my career than the night we defeated Hungary in Budapest to breathe life back into our bid to reach the World Cup Finals.

It is always a great feeling to lead England out as captain but this was something special.

As I walked out into the Nép Stadium I looked back over my shoulder at the lads filing out behind me and thought: "Ron has picked the right side. We can do it."

And 20 minutes after the start I just knew we were going to win.

Ron Greenwood had been criticised for recalling his experienced players but whatever the outcome of the game I knew he had chosen the right men for this particular job.

It was our World Cup final. That's how we regarded it in our preparation for the game – and we were so high after our victory we actually thought we had won the World Cup.

Let's face it, if we had lost it would almost certainly have been our last game for England – that goes for just about everyone in the side.

Defeat would have put us out of the World Cup and few of us could have been included in plans for the 1986 Finals.

Perhaps that's one of the reasons everyone did so well. It was one of our greatest performances for a long time.

It wasn't just that we won in we'd won Cup

Hungary that pleased me... it was the way we won.

It was said after the game that Hungary were not as good as they had been cracked up to be. But they only played as well as we let them.

In football two teams can't play really well in the same game.

We found the right blend on the night and they couldn't cope with it.

They had their own stars. I thought Toroczik showed tremendous control of the ball. He ran past players in midfield and put them out of the game.

If he had done more of that in the box we might have been in trouble.

And their goalkeeper, Katzirz, was as good as anyone on the park. For such a big man, well over six feet, he was very agile.

But we had our own aces. Trevor Brooking had a magnificent game.

Trevor must have realised that this was definitely his last game for England if we lost. But despite the pressures he played the game of his life.

I always like to see Trevor's name in the line-up when I am playing. He makes me a better player.

I have now scored 20 goals for England and Trevor has made ten of them! He can win games when he's in the mood.

Trevor put us ahead 1-0 and then restored our lead with a great goal after they had equalised.

Then came the penalty. Despite being in the lead we needed to take the pressure off. I knew that if I scored it would kill the game for the Hungarians.

What most people didn't know was that the last time I took a

England's triumphant skipper
KEVIN KEEGAN
writes just for you

penalty for England was SIX years ago. It was against Switzerland in Basle... and I missed it!

But there was no disputing who would take the kick. The boss had asked me to take the penalties some time ago and I had said yes. So it was my responsibility.

Obviously I was a little nervous - though perhaps not as nervous as the many England fans watching the game on TV at home.

As I walked back to take my run up I thought: "The 'keeper's a big lad with a long reach... why don't you just blast it?"

But then I thought: "A guy that size will have a job to get down, so I'll keep it low."

Before I took the kick it would have been hard to find anyone in England to change places with me. But after the ball went in I'll bet everyone wanted to be in my shoes.

They are great situations to be in and I enjoy the responsibility.

Immediately after the game the Swiss asked me to do a TV interview.

But I was so choked up I couldn't talk. I've never been so emotional after a game.

Just like the other lads I really felt as though we'd won the World Cup.

We still have two tough games to go to get to Spain - but nothing will stop us now.

Out of reach... Kevin Keegan guides his first penalty kick in six years for England wide of the Hungarian 'keeper.

Why they

Above: Nottingham Forest's Trevor Francis — he was my striking partner at Birmingham.

Below: Peter Taylor — he wanted to sign me for Brighton before he joined Forest.

ASTON VILLA and England international Peter Withe continues his fascinating life story... exclusive to Match Weekly. After a spell in South Africa Peter spent two seasons in the First Division with Wolves. This week he tells of his summer in America and his transfer to struggling Birmingham City.

'WIZARD of the nod'... 'The mad header'... that's what the amazed American soccer fans used to call me.

After my second season with Wolves I accepted an offer to spend the summer in America playing for Portland Timbers.

And I really set the fans talking because they'd never seen a player head the ball before — they couldn't believe that it didn't hurt me!

I thoroughly enjoyed my time in America. Football was establishing itself as a sport out there and it was quite exciting to be spreading the gospel.

And the fans took to the game almost immediately — even though at first there were some funny moments.

One that springs to mind was when we played in Seattle against the Sounders and the home fans spent the first 15 minutes cheering us!

The confusion arose when we took to the field in the wrong colours and the fans

I play in the Soccer Bowl then it's home to England

BIRMINGHAM stepped in quickly to stop me dropping down to the Third Division with Brighton.

While I was in America with Portland Timbers my Wolves manager Bill McGarry sent me a telegram asking if I'd like to join Peter Taylor (now Brian Clough's assistant at Forest) at Brighton.

And because my first team chances were limited at Molineux I agreed to join the South coast club... until Birmingham boss Freddie Goodwin jetted in from England to snatch my signature.

The first I knew of Birmingham's interest was when I saw Freddie watching me training with Portland one day.

Of course I was happy to sign because I wanted to stay in Division One — and I was impressed that he'd flown all that way to sign me.

The fee was £50,000 and I looked forward to starting the 1975-76 season as a 'Blues' player.

But I missed the first four games because Portland qualified for the Soccer Bowl Final and when I arrived in Birmingham the storm clouds were already hovering over St. Andrews.

They'd lost three games on the trot and were struggling near the foot of the table.

My first game for them was at Ipswich — the same team I made my Wolves debut against — and despite two goals from Bob Hutton (now Sheff. Utd.) we went down 4-2.

Above: Here I am in my Birmingham days (top row, far left). Terry Hibbitt is pictured on the middle row (fourth left) and Howard Kendall on the front row (fourth left).

My home debut was more successful for both myself and the team.

We drew 1-1 against high-flying Queens Park Rangers and I set up the goal for Howard Kendall (he's now in charge at Everton of course).

We won two of our next three games but it wasn't enough to prevent the board sacking Freddie Goodwin and replacing him with Willie Bell.

The new manager had different ideas as to how the team should perform and he asked me to play a wider role than I was used to up front... alongside a 'youngster' called Trevor Francis and Scotsman Kenny Burns!

Although the position didn't suit me I finished the season with 32 League games and nine goals to my credit.

But it wasn't enough to convince the manager that I was worth keeping.

As told to Anthony Hawkswell.

NEXT WEEK: Life with Clough and Taylor at Nottingham Forest.

call me Wizard of the nod thought we were the home team!

The lifestyle was great out there and so was the football. Portland's all-British team reached the Final of the Soccer Bowl.

It was my first-ever final, but unfortunately I wasn't destined to end up on the winning side and we were beaten 3-1 by Tampa Bay Rowdies.

My spell in America helped my own play enormously. As well as scoring 19 goals in 23 games I picked up the valuable experience of playing competitive matches week in, week out.

The PETER WITHE Story

A goal I'll always remember

TERRY HIBBITT and myself were destined to play together for Newcastle . . . but before we did, we combined to score a great goal against them.

It was one of the highspots of my short stay at Birmingham. I hit two goals against the North East side and one will live in my memory for a long time.

Terry, who has sadly retired from the game because of injury, played a great ball to me on the edge of the box.

I came running on to his pass and hit the ball first time past the 'keeper, John Mahoney.

It ranks as the best goal I scored for Birmingham and sent the 31,000 St Andrews fans into raptures.

We finished up 3-2 winners thanks to a Trevor Francis penalty which guaranteed us both points.

Nothing

- Above: Stop that if you can! The ball is flying from Trevor Brooking's left boot for one of the most spectacular goals he'll ever score. Hungarian defender Balint can only watch and wonder. It was a marvellous return to the England side for the West Ham maestro whose first goal gave England the lead in the 18th minute.
- Right: White-shirted England centre forward Paul Mariner rises high above his marker Martos in one of the game's many aerial duels. Mariner struck up a good understanding with Keegan in the England attack to cause the Hungarian defence all kinds of problems.

- Above: It's all over. England have done it and goalscorers Kevin Keegan and Trevor Brooking can at last afford a smile as they are interviewed on the pitch inside Budapest's Nep Stadium after the match. The England celebrations went on long into the night as the Hungarians were left to ponder what went wrong.
- Right: It's there! Even giant Hungarian goalkeeper Katzirz can't get to the ball this time as Kevin Keegan slots home England's third goal from the penalty spot in the 74th minute to the relief of his team mates and everyone back home.

will stop us now

WORLD CUP '82

NOTHING will stop us now . . . the words are those of England skipper Kevin Keegan and the message is loud and clear — Spain here we come!

England entered their game with Hungary in Budapest's Nép Stadium favourites for the World Cup chop. Instead it was Ron Greenwood's men who wielded the axe to produce a stirring 3-1 victory that will almost surely take them to the Finals in Spain.

The chips were down. But when it mattered the England players responded magnificently.

Pride was restored. Confidence was re-captured. Best of all there was a smile on Ron Greenwood's face again . . .

ROTHERHAM ROAR BACK

ROTHERHAM United return to the Second Division next season after an absence of 13 years . . . minus the manager who led them back.

Ian Porterfield quit Millmoor under a cloud earlier this month to take over the hot seat at rival Yorkshire club Sheffield United.

And his shock move down into the Fourth Division will doubtless be mourned by Rotherham fans.

He raised a few eyebrows last summer when he splashed out £300,000 on four new players.

But the Third Division Championship trophy sitting in the club boardroom is testament to his shrewd investments.

In came Millwall pair John Seasman and Tony Towner (£180,000), Cardiff striker Ronnie Moore (£100,000) and Sheffield Wednesday defender Jimmy Mullen (£25,000) . . . and up went the 'Merry Millers'.

Long-serving central defender Paul Stancliffe paid tribute to Ian's work as manager when he said:

"Those four players were the final pieces of the jigsaw.

"We always had a pretty good side but lacked the consistency to get promotion.

"Jimmy Mullen's arrival from Wednesday improved my game no end and gave the defence confidence.

"He led by example and I always knew he would be there to cover when I went in for a challenge.

"Tony Towner and John Seasman gave us experience and flair in midfield and but for Ronnie Moore's 21 goals we wouldn't have made it.

Honesty

"While the newcomers made the difference however our success was based on all round team work and hard graft which was the manager's style.

"He worked hard and expected honesty and hard work in return from the players. I believe we gave him that last season."

Rotherham finished last season unbeaten at home and boasting the best defensive record in the country — conceding only 32 goals.

It's no surprise therefore when Paul says: "If we can reproduce our form of last season then I believe we can hold our own in the Second Division."

The goal that clinched the Third Division championship. Rodney Fern snatches the crucial goal in the 2-1 defeat of Plymouth.

Defender Paul Stancliffe is looking forward to life in the Second Division.

Former Brighton and Millwall midfielder player Tony Towner is a big hit with the fans at Millmoor.

Brady's title, Italian style

LIAM Brady has achieved with Juventus the honour he longed for at Arsenal — a League Championship medal.

The Eire international midfielder whose £600,000 move from Highbury to the Italian giants shocked the football world last summer, helped clinch the title with a star performance against Florence in the season's final game.

Juventus won 1-0 with a Cabrini goal in front of 50,000 flare and flag-waving fans and Brady declared: "I knew Juventus had a great side with men like Causio, Bettiga, Gentile, Tardelli, Cuccureddu and Zoff, but winning this championship is just fantastic."

Then he peeled off his shirt to give to a wheelchair-bound supporter (right) and revealed that he planned to dedicate his medal to Gigi Peronace, the man who masterminded his move to Italy but died earlier this year.

"He was one of the best friends I ever had for his advice and help," said Brady, who has learned Italian, leads a film-star lifestyle and whose eight goals made him the club's top scorer.

FOOTNOTE: Brady has been nicknamed the "general" by the Italian fans. They put him on a par with the French general Napoleon for his tactical genius!

Saints challenge

SOUTHAMPTON have accepted an invitation to represent England in the Trans-Atlantic Challenge tournament in the United States from July 11-19.

Representing the North American Soccer League in this four-cornered tussle are New York Cosmos, champions in 1972, '77, '78 and '80, Seattle Sounders and crack Russian side Donetsk Shakhtyor.

David's costly dash

DAVID Johnson's desperation to spend a penny may cost his club £200!

Thousands of Liverpool fans lined the route from the airport (left) to the City centre as the players returned in triumph from their 1-0 defeat of Real Madrid in the European Cup final.

But the Anfield striker decided he couldn't resist the call of nature until the team coach reached the ground. So he nipped off the coach and a householder on the route was happy to allow him the use of his loo.

However, when Johnson emerged he was not relieved to discover he had been spotted by some fans, who in mobbing their hero caused extensive damage to the front garden. And Liverpool may have to foot the bill.

GOLDEN GOAL

Liverpool's European Cup Final hero ALAN KENNEDY re-lives the goal that could decide his future.

BARNEY

● Above: Liverpool's Scottish stars Kenny Dalglish, Graeme Souness and Alan Hansen are almost always inseparable when it's time to celebrate another trophy.

LIVERPOOL'S European Cup Final hero Alan Kennedy feels his 83rd minute winner in Paris could decide his whole future.

That's how much importance he attaches to the goal that shattered Real Madrid and brought the cup back to Anfield for the third time in five years.

"The night had been a long time coming for me, but I feel I have made it at last with Liverpool," says the former Newcastle defender who has been contesting the left back spot with Avi Cohen and Richard Money.

Added Alan, the man they have nicknamed 'Barney Rubble' because of his resemblance to the 'Flintstones' cartoon character: "That goal has given me an incentive to grab a permanent place now or move on. It is up to me, but that goal can be the whole future for me."

Reflecting on the moment that provided him with the highlight of his soccer career, Alan said: "I received the ball from a throw-in and saw the space ahead.

"The chance was there when a defender mis-kicked and I just kept on going before slamming the ball home. It was the greatest moment I've had in football.

"I've won the League, the League Cup and the Charity Shield but this tops the lot. I can still hardly believe it."

● Re-created . . . the moment Alan Kennedy struck Liverpool's Cup winner.

Right: You little beauty! Liverpool's glittering European prize!

Y'S BIG IGHT

Alan Kennedy

ool skipper Phil Thompson snuggles up to Liverpool's League? You bet!

ANYONE betting against Liverpool regaining the League Championship next season would be a fool!

That is the confident forecast from Scottish international Alan Hansen who sees Aston Villa as merely a temporary resting place for the glittering prize.

After Liverpool's third European Cup triumph, the elegant defender said: "We never played well at all last season and we had so many injuries."

"But the win over Real Madrid proved a few things, didn't it?"

"Now you watch us go next season."

Anyone betting against us in the League will be making a big mistake."

After winning the title four times in the past six years, Liverpool's fifth placing last season prompted suggestions that the Anfield machine was beginning to go rusty.

But Alan dismisses the doubters whose claims were fuelled by three home defeats which followed a remarkable unbeaten 85-game sequence.

"It was just one of those things. Leicester battled well when they beat us, but we should have put six past Manchester United. When Sunderland won at Anfield we weren't really 100 per cent."

"Even after Christmas we thought we could win the title. The trouble was we had already let in 30 goals . . . but winning the European Cup is more than ample consolation."

Alan's optimism for the future is endorsed by midfield operator Ray Kennedy who knows more than most about winning medals.

He collected his 14th major honour in Paris, including the 'double' with Arsenal in the early seventies and three European Cup medals with Liverpool.

He says: "I promise you this present Liverpool side will go on and win trophies for at least another two seasons."

"And that is talking with a lot of experience behind me. I have never felt more certain."

MY PRIZE

Hunt...Brilliant finish

THERE were some great goals to savour last season — not least Ricky Villa's matchwinner in our FA Cup Final replay with Manchester City.

But the best in my opinion was a brilliant effort from Coventry midfielder Steve Hunt.

It was the winning goal in the 'Sky Blues' 2-1 League victory over Birmingham at Highfield Road last November.

And when ITV invited me along to their studios for a day to judge their annual 'Goal of the Season' competition, Steve's special was my selection.

After picking up the ball he beat one man, played a great one-two with Garry Thompson and then bent the ball round Birmingham 'keeper Jeff Wealds — the finish was brilliant.

The goal I placed next best was scored by Manchester City's Phil Boyer (then with Southampton) against Ipswich at the Dell the same month.

He flicked the ball up and hit it on the turn into the top corner from the edge of the box.

Of the goals I scored last season the one that gave me most satisfaction was for England in the friendly against Spain at Wembley.

The ball was nodded out by their big centre half and it fell perfectly for me to hit a low right foot shot into the corner of the net.

Right: Coventry's Steve Hunt — scorer of the 'Goal of the Season'.

GUYS!

SHAW...SUCH FLAIR

MANCHESTER CITY goalkeeper Joe Corrigan always seems to play well against Spurs and he certainly lived up to that in our two games with the Maine Road club at Wembley.

But if I had to pick our most difficult opponent last season I would go for young Aston Villa striker Gary Shaw — he enjoyed an exceptional season.

He certainly played well in Spurs two matches against Villa last season.

On the subject of Villa I was pleased that a side who are always looking to win — even away from home — won the League Championship.

They have a good, young, attacking side and they've got a lot more flair than people sometimes give them credit for in players like Gary Shaw, Dennis Mortimer, Gordon Cowans and Peter Withe.

TOUGHEST OPPONENT

Match columnist Glenn Hoddle of Spurs and England singles out some of last season's outstanding individuals.

Thijssen...consistent

FRANS THIJSSSEN gets my vote as the outstanding player of last season.

He was my choice for the PFA 'Player of the Year' although the man who took the award was his team mate John Wark.

Frans played consistently well throughout the season.

His fellow Dutchman and team mate Arnold Muhren also had a great season I thought.

Both have very good footballing brains and possess great vision, but they are different types of players in that Muhren's passing ability is his great strength and Thijssen is better known for taking players on.

NORTHERN Ireland's World Cup hopes hang in the balance.

After the 1-0 defeat in Sweden their central defender Chris Nicholl admits: "We're in the disappointing position of having to rely on other teams dropping points.

"We needed to win or draw to be masters of our own destiny.

"Now we've got to look to other teams doing a job for us," said the Southampton star.

"The lads were down after the defeat, but we're still determined to get to Spain.

"We just didn't play well in Sweden. As the game wore on it became obvious that a mistake or an indifferent refereeing decision would swing it.

"Unfortunately the ref's usually give 50-50 decisions to the home side and that's how it worked out — they scored from the spot.

"The Swedes were a completely different proposition to the team we beat in Belfast," added Chris.

That day the Irish romped to a 3-0 win with goals from Blackburn's Noel Brotherston and Manchester United pair Sammy McIlroy and Jimmy Nicholl.

Ireland still have two games left to play in Group Six — both at home — against Scotland and Israel.

"The big game is obviously the Scottish match, but it's vital we come away from both with the four points tucked under our belt," added Chris, who's made over 30 appearances for his country.

Their main rivals for that coveted place in the World Cup Finals in Spain are Portugal, who still have to face group leaders Scotland.

A Gerry Armstrong goal beat the Portuguese in Belfast while the Irish went down 1-0 in Lisbon.

"They're another team that plays completely differently away from home. They're not very good travellers.

"If the Israelis can pull off a shock result against them we'll be back in with a shout," added Chris.

Russia...my bet to win the group

WALES' star full-back Joey Jones underlined the spirit running through the Welsh camp when he declared: "Every time we play for our country we play as though it's our last game."

Joey, one of the heroes of Wales' draw with Russia at Wrexham last month, told Match Weekly:

"Although there will have been a four month gap between that game with Russia and our next match in Czechoslovakia all the lads will be raring to go because it will be a month or so into the new season.

"The way Mike England has got the team playing now I see no reason why we can't give as good as we get if we qualify for Spain.

"We are in a tough group. Iceland are probably the weakest team and we got off to a good start by beating them 4-0 even though we didn't play that well in the first half.

"In the second half we got at them a bit more and scored what were three quite simple goals.

"Turkey were the next opponents and again we beat them 4-0 — this time at home.

"We later beat them 1-0 away and that was a great result because they are a tough side, especially on their own soil.

"I remember when we played them in the European Championship in 1979 we lost 1-0 over there.

"And when I played for Liverpool in the European Cup against Turkish Champions Trabzonspor we lost 1-0 at their place.

"After Turkey came Czechoslovakia. I was injured and so missed the game but it was another great win. They are one of the top teams in Europe.

"Finally it was Russia and I think, if I'm honest, they will probably win the group on the form they showed against us.

"It always seemed they could step up a gear and although a lot of Welsh fans expected us to win that match I was pleased with our 0-0 result on the day.

"They had some very good players — Chivadze, Kippiani, Blokhin on the wing and Besanov who was good coming forward.

"We'll be trying to sew up our place in the finals before we go to Russia in our last qualifying fixture because it's going to be very difficult over there.

"Having said that I think we can get a result over there if need be.

"West Ham proved the Russians are not invincible when they won 1-0 away to Dinamo Tbilisi after losing 4-1 at home in the Cup Winners Cup.

"Before the Russia game we play Czechoslovakia away and Iceland at home — three points from those games and we should be there."

Joey Jones: "If I'm honest Russia will probably win the group, but I'm confident we can sew up our place in Spain before we play them again."

Just a picnic for 'nice guy' Brooking

NOTHING hurts the England players more than to see the boss, Ron Greenwood, being criticised.

He's like a father figure to us and we can't do enough for him.

So it was great to see him with a smile on his face once more after our 3-1 win in Hungary.

Everyone could sense what he'd been going through and he must have been thinking 'why should I bother?'

We all wanted to do so well for him so you can imagine how we felt when we lost in Switzerland.

Our whole world seemed to fall apart in the space of two minutes when they got those two goals.

It was like a morgue in the dressing room after the game. There was just stunned silence because we all thought that the Hungary game would be the toughest of the tour.

MATCH columnist and England number nine Paul Mariner re-lives that winning feeling in England's vital World Cup qualifier in Budapest.

We had a few days to dwell on the Swiss result before we faced Hungary and we all knew we had a lot to prove.

We had a little team meeting before the game and the boss said they had three excellent players — the captain Nyilasi, striker Torocsik and the sweeper Balint.

He told us that other than those three there shouldn't be too much to trouble us and if we played as we can we would win.

It was sink or swim and we swam!

"Trevor Brooking is such an unassuming guy that when he came into the dressing room at the end you'd have thought he'd just come in from a picnic!"

The boss made a couple of changes and when he announced the team he explained that he'd gone for character and experience.

We knew it was going to be a cauldron inside the Nep Stadium and he wanted players that had been through the mill. It was time for us to stand up and be counted.

Of course it's history now that Trevor Brooking came in and scored two of our three goals.

I was so pleased for him because he'd been out in the cold for a while and it was good to see one of the game's nice guys doing so well.

But Trevor's such an unassuming guy. When he came into the dressing room at the end you'd have thought he'd just come in from a picnic instead of such an important international!

I was pleased with my own performance in the second half and I struck up a tremendous understanding with Kevin Keegan.

I think we both enjoyed playing up front together.

There's a bit of a gap before England's next World Cup qualifier in Norway, but I don't think that will have any adverse effects — it will be a welcome rest.

Victory in that match and in the last game against Hungary at Wembley should see us OK for Spain.

Now for some cricket

THE celebrations went on long into the night after England's victory in Hungary.

The players from both the senior squad and the Under-21 squad all got together for a slap up meal and a drink.

We flew back home the following day and although I got back feeling tired I was soon on a plane again — this time to play in a friendly with the Ipswich lads in Canada.

What I'm really looking forward to now is spending some time at home and putting my feet up to watch some cricket.

No manager in the world can touch the record of Liverpool boss Bob Paisley.

Bob became the only manager to lead a team to three European Cup Final victories... and there's more to come!

Bob's a Geordie and isn't it strange that a Geordie (Ray Kennedy) scored the winner in the semi-final and a Geordie (Alan Kennedy) scored the winner in the Final!

It's a great boost for that part of the country and it shows we've still got plenty to offer.

John Forster, Denton Burn, Northumberland.

Scots can thank the ref

FRENCH referee R. Wurtz should have been presented with a pair of glasses after the England-Scotland game at Wembley.

After awarding the Scots a legitimate penalty following Bryan Robson's foul on Steve Archibald he missed an even more obvious offence when Willie Miller pulled back Trevor Francis in the box.

That decision cost England a draw they deserved and would have sent them to Switzerland with a little more confidence. Colin Renfold (11), Greenwich, London.

Cup stinker!

EUROPEAN Cup Finals are becoming boring affairs — for the last four years we've had to endure 1-0 results.

Everyone was predicting that the Liverpool versus Real Madrid game would be a cracker — but it ended up a stinker!

The UEFA Cup is supposedly lower standard but the two legged finals were much more exciting to watch.

Is it a coincidence that an English club has won the European Cup for the past four years after dull finals or is there something wrong with our game? Stephen Hill, Queensferry, Deeside, Clwyd.

Reds restore Geordie pride

Shorter season will help England

ENGLAND will never be a world force until the Football League and FA get together and sort out the League season — it's too long.

We've got to shorten the season and give England manager Ron Greenwood a chance to get his players together for longer periods.

Until that happens our national team will continue to put in mediocre performances. Dean Reynolds (13), Solihull, West Midlands.

Disgusting fans

I WAS disgusted by the England fans' behaviour in Switzerland.

They're giving us a terrible reputation and I really feel sorry for the true fans who go out there.

Greg Littlewood, Woodborough, Notts.

Watch Watford go!

WATCH out for Watford — they'll be a force in the Second Division next season!

Many people still consider them as a Third Division outfit but manager Graham Taylor has been working hard building up his side and next season he could reap the benefits.

With players like Northern Ireland international Gerry Armstrong, evergreen Pat Rice and Kenny Jackett in his side there's obvious cause to be optimistic.

They're strong candidates for promotion and with their cup record could be outside bets for a Wembley appearance!

Peter Patterson, Bentley, Farnham, Surrey.

ENTERTAINING TOTTENHAM

£10 WINNER

FA Cup winners Tottenham Hotspur are football's best entertainers — according to Match Weekly's exclusive 'Match Facts'.

I've compiled an entertainment table from last season's League games and it shows 'The Cockerels' as clear leaders.

According to 'Match Facts' Spurs produced six 'classic' performances and were 'good value' 16 times.

Their nearest challengers were League champions Aston Villa with four 'classic' displays.

I think you'll agree my table (below) makes interesting reading. John Waddington, Ainsdale, Southport, Merseyside.

OUTRAGED!

Crazy qualifiers

THE qualifying system for the World Cup is totally unfair.

It's ludicrous that two teams from Africa and Asia should qualify for the Finals when it's obvious they're not as good as European teams who've been knocked out.

Only the best teams should qualify for the tournament — that's why it's called 'The World Cup'.

If the authorities keep using this silly way of selecting teams for the Finals they'll have to change the name of the competition. Nicholas Etherton, Crawley, Sussex.

● DON'T knock it — next time FIFA might put England in a group with the likes of Togo, Haiti and Lesotho . . . and then perhaps we'll qualify!

RIGHT you lot — I'm Anthony Hawkswell and I'm in charge of the 'Outraged' column.

I'll be sending off the writer of the most outrageous letter of the week and booking others that make me really angry.

If you dare, write to me at: Outraged, Match Weekly, Midgate House, Midgate, Peterborough PE1 1UB.

Pay the penalty

NO games — whether in the cup or league — should end in a draw.

Fans like to see a result either way and I reckon the best way of producing a result would be to decide the issue on penalties if there's a draw after 90 minutes.

This would produce more entertaining football because teams wouldn't shut up shop and defend a point — they'd have to go out and attack.

David Fox, Neville Holt, St. Martins, Jersey

● Just ask Graham Rix of Arsenal what he thinks of penalties! It's no answer because it reduces the game to a lottery.

Give us credit

IT'S about time the lower divisions got more credit.

Last season I saw both Bristol clubs in the Second Division and watched Torquay's Fourth Division matches — and there's not much difference between the standard of the two divisions.

Keith Bowker of Torquay is just as skilful as the overrated Mabbutt brothers.

Neil Emery, Blaise Dell, Henbury, Bristol

● IF the Bristol clubs don't watch out they could soon be joining Torquay in the Fourth Division. There's a big gap between the Second and Fourth Divisions.

Hat-trick Heroes

David Cross, West Ham's 27 goal hero, who scored four goals against Grimsby to clinch the Second Division championship.

How four-goal Cross scuttled the Mariners

DAVID Cross sailed past the Grimsby defence four times to send West Ham back to the top flight as Second Division champions.

His four goal blast not only sent his team back to Division One in style, it also scuttled 'The Mariners' own promotion hopes as they went down 5-1.

"It was a very important game for both teams," recalls David. "We needed to win to take the championship and if Grimsby won they were favourites to come up with us."

But the match was very nearly postponed as rain lashed down on the morning of the game leaving the pitch covered in water.

But David didn't let the weather put a dampener on Hammers push for honours and finished the day with the sixth League hat-trick of his career and his third for West Ham.

"The first was the best — because it was the most important. Grimsby had put us under pressure for the first half hour and I broke them down with a volley in the 32nd minute," said David.

"The second was a header after Alan Devonshire got to the byeline, and I completed my hat-trick when I walked the ball into the net after Ray Stewart's shot had been parried by the keeper.

And as the disconsolate Grimsby fans were tramping out of Blundell Park David added a fourth with the last kick of the match.

"That was the most spectacular because it came from an overhead kick and was technically a good goal," added David, who also notched up a hat-trick in last season's European Cup Winners Cup game against Castilla (Spain).

Free transfer for top-scorer Coyne

FORMER Man Utd striker Peter Coyne hit four goals in one game last season and finished up as Fourth Division Crewe's top scorer with 13 league goals.

But it didn't stop the 22-year-old striker from being put on a free transfer by his hard-up club!

"I couldn't believe it. Not many players can have been put on the list after finishing up as top scorer," said Peter.

"Fortunately I've got until August before my contract runs out so that gives me a little breathing space.

"But it's going to be difficult to get fixed up because so many players have been released. I might have to try my luck abroad," said Peter.

"I played in America a couple of years back for Los Angeles Aztecs and enjoyed my spell out there. I'm thinking about returning," he added.

Peter's highlight of the season last term was when he hit four in Crewe's 5-0 demolition of Hereford.

"It was the first time I'd ever scored more than two in a game so I'll always remember the occasion.

"Two of the goals were simple tap-ins, another came from a corner and the other was a shot after a free-kick."

Right: Crewe's Peter Coyne — on a free transfer even though he finished the season as the Fourth Division club's top scorer.
